A WOMAN'S PAPER.

The times are most unpropitious to new literary enterprises-or old ones either-but, in the full conviction that much good and no harm can result from a broad, catholic, manysided discussion of the sphere, rights, position, and opportunities of Woman, we give place and good wishes to the following

PROSPECTUS OF THE WOMAN'S JOURNAL When we consider that there is scarcely a party, sect, bust ess organization, or reform which is not represented in the press, it appears strange that women, constituting one-half of humanity, should have no organ in America, especially devoted to the promotion of their interests, particularly as these interests have excited more wide-spread attention in this country than in any other, while in no other country can the
